Administration and Faculty

The faculty and administration are essential parts in the development of a horizon. Exploring new ideas in curriculum and devoting time to the planning and construction of new facilities are only two of their many tasks. Through their varied backgrounds and positions, they influence important decisions in a student's path to his horizon.

Dedicated Men

The responsibilities of the Superintendent and the Board of Education do not end with any season but require year-round involvement. Mr. Swank, assisted by five dedicated board members, creates new ideas and devises new methods to better the school system.

In behalf of the Heath Education Association, Mr. Mitchell presents Mr. Swank with a plaque commending him on his fine service to the Heath City Schools. In making the presentation, Mr. Mitchell said, "The motto of the Heath City Schools is 'Heath Takes Pride in Its Schools;' the Heath Education Association takes pride in its superintendent."

Light the Way

Creating a new and interesting curriculum for the schools and experimenting with new trends in education are the goals of the Director of Instruction, Mr. Smith. Mr. Guckenheimer, the Vocational Director, encourages vocational education and opportunities for students from many schools around the area. The high school principal, Mr. Hanlon, uses both humor and sincerity in promoting a good education for each student and does his best to make each student a happy one.

Inspire Perfection

The activities of all the schools in the system are co-ordinated by a team of six capable persons. Be it planning a concert, aiding a student in the selection of a career, helping a person with a speech problem or maintaining buildings, smooth-running cafeterias, or a healthy system, the six directors prove to be valuable assets to the school.

To meet, communicate, and understand people . . . the goal of literature. It provides the background information that brings people closer to one another. Shakespeare, as well as other authors, gives to those who seek it the understanding of mankind. Through this knowledge, literature enables men to communicate more, and better, thus widening another horizon.

History and Language Guide Us

History teaches us about the successes and mistakes of the past and helps us to make wiser decisions. Through language, we learn to communicate with more people our ideas and to establish better relations with foreign countries. The knowledge gained through these subjects will prepare us to make or break a dawning of peace.

Math and Science Challenge

In order to be able to set your sights on the future, the development of the mind is most essential. Math and the sciences finely develop it into a precise tool. No other set of courses can train the students' minds in curiosity for the unexplored, the willingness to accept the challenge of a new world, and the patience to make that world develop into what one wants it to be.

Self-Expression Lights One's Future

The arts and vocal music open new pathways to student self-expression. The freedom achieved in art stimulates the student to higher levels of appreciation. The excellence achieved by the participants of the "Oklahoma!" musical and the total choir impressed all who witnessed their performances. The physical strength gained in physical education classes provides the stamina for future years.

The Vocational School offers a diversity of courses to span the reaches between now and tomorrow. They prepare the students in the most fundamental occupations: drafting, auto-motives, cosmetology, machinery, and electronics. Without these, a new horizon could never be attained.

Life

Horizons of every student were widened as they participated in school activities. From the dawn of school with football games to the closing with the Junior-Senior Prom the year progressed rapidly.

With social events such as dances, picnics, money-making projects, and initiations, the interest and education of students were broadened and led to a brighter horizon in the future.

Student Council

The student government conducted five major activities throughout the year. The activity calendar was prepared in the fall along with the sale of bookcovers. Other projects ranged from conducting student elections to developing a new paid assembly program and a new Senior Farewell Assembly.

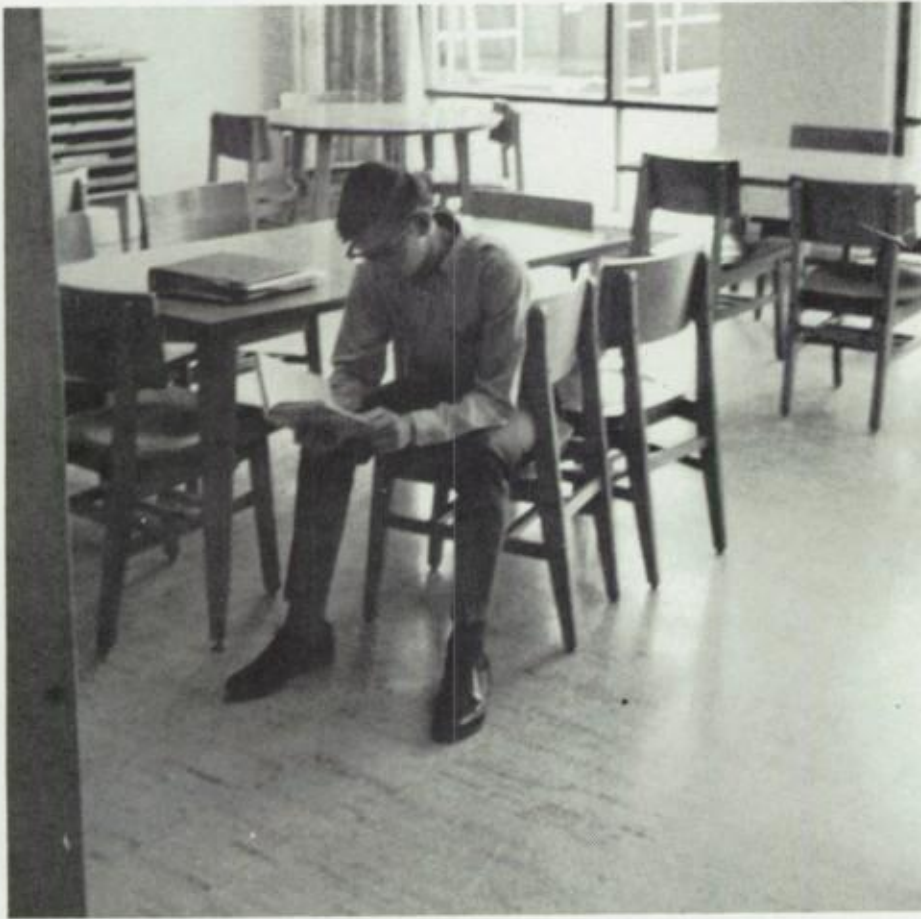

A student council exchange with Granville and Utica was the highlight of the year. Student Council members Paula Henry and Mike Myers attended a workshop in Whitehall. In the election of a new vice-president, Rick Weiser was elected.

Heath Band

This year, under the direction of Mr. Hill, the marching band began its season with an Ice Cream Social at Arro Department Store. Head Majorette Cheryl Klontz led the band in the Millersport Sweet Corn Festival and United Appeal Parades. At each football game the band provided colorful half-time entertainment. They joined with 15 other bands to present the half-time festivities at the Denison Band Day.

The Concert Band began its season with the Christmas Concert. Entertaining the student body at various assemblies, the band continued its achievements by holding the annual "Heath Bands in Review" on March 14. The following day the band traveled to Lexington to take part in the District Competition. Concluding the year's events was a combined concert with the Westlake Symphonic Band from Cleveland, Ohio under the direction of Mr. Thomas Hill.

The Choir had many firsts this year. Under the direction of Mr. Risner the choir presented many school assemblies and public concerts. At Christmas the choir presented their first public performance. After months of hard work and much effort, the choir presented the first musical in Heath's history, "Oklahoma!"

The Triple Trio, a group of nine girls, was very active this year also. Making their first performance at the Thanksgiving Assembly, the Triple Trio gave concerts for various community events. The vocal music department closed the year by singing for Baccalaureate and Commencement.

At the half-time, the Alma Mater was presented to the public for the first time. On Saturday night the voyage ended with the "Rainy Daze" providing the music for the Homecoming Dance.

"I thought I might go off some place... work on a farm or something."

The story of a Jewish family that goes into seclusion to escape Nazi persecution is the plot of the moving drama THE DIARY OF ANNE FRANK, presented on November 8 and 9. The diary revealed to the world the horrors of hiding and the necessity of understanding among individuals. Everyone who witnessed the production came away with the realization that "...people are really good at heart."

Whiling away the lonely hours while all the time their thoughts are elsewhere.

The annual stockholders' meeting.

On March 29 and 30 THE SOLID GOLD CADILLAC was presented to the public. The satirical comedy gave a light-hearted view of big business versus the government and other problems and legalities involving stockholders. For three 'uglies', two photographers, a lady newscaster, an ex-Secretary of Defense, an actress-stockholder, a beguiling secretary, and the student director, this was the final 'board meeting'.

The horizons of many students were broadened with the production of "Oklahoma!" on the Heath High stage. Under the direction of Mr. Risner, the musical was presented for the patrons on May 1 and to sell-out audiences on May 2 and 3. The story took place in the territory of the present state of Oklahoma. Shot-gun weddings, a fight, a dream ballet, and a surrey with fringe on the top all developed into a successful 'first' for Heath High. All who participated were quick to agree that "Oklahoma!" was OK!

Athletics

The athletic department is a most important one. Through interscholastic and intramural sports students learn more than game rules. They realize the necessity of good sportsmanship and team work in order to win humbly and lose gracefully. Such attitudes will make their paths to new horizons easier to travel. The door to opportunity opens only to those who play the game with the pride and dignity befitting an athlete. Through this door we greet a new dawn.

Varsity Football

He'll go bald if he keeps that up!

O. K. you guys, down in front!

Although this year's football season was not as successful as Heath fans had hoped it would be, it was, nevertheless, a season of many firsts. The Bulldogs fought hard all season and never gave up. This was evident in the team's victories in the final two games of the season. This year's team scored more points than any other Heath football team. It was also the first football victory for Heath over Utica. The reserve team and the Freshman team were L. C. L. champs in their own leagues.

Baseball Team

After taking second place in the LCL for the last five years the Heath baseball team, under new coach Ferrell Swinehart, finally broke the jinx. They took a share of the LCL title by defeating defending champs Licking Valley in the final game. It was later found, however, that Heath had used two ineligible players in its last two games. Due to an OH SAA rule, Heath had to forfeit those games. Along with those games went the title and Heath's best season up to now.

The Heath team ended the season by dropping to fourth place. The team also had its best tournament play by winning three games and advancing to District play.

Track Team

1969 was a rebuilding year for the Heath Track Team but still a great one. It was a year of improvement and a continuation of Heath's winning tradition. The Sophomore-laden team was undefeated in dual and tri-meets. The win over Granville marked Heath's 20th straight victory in LCL competition in a three-year period. Heath missed winning the Licking County Track Meet by one-half point. The Bulldogs were third in the District and five boys qualified in the Regional. Highjumping Ben Pemberton made it to the State but failed to place.

Underclassmen

Preparing for the horizons of tomorrow, the underclassmen acquaint themselves with the tools needed to brighten the future. Awareness, knowledge, and respect are necessary attributes in achieving one's goals. Through the various classes and activities in high school, students attain higher levels of success.

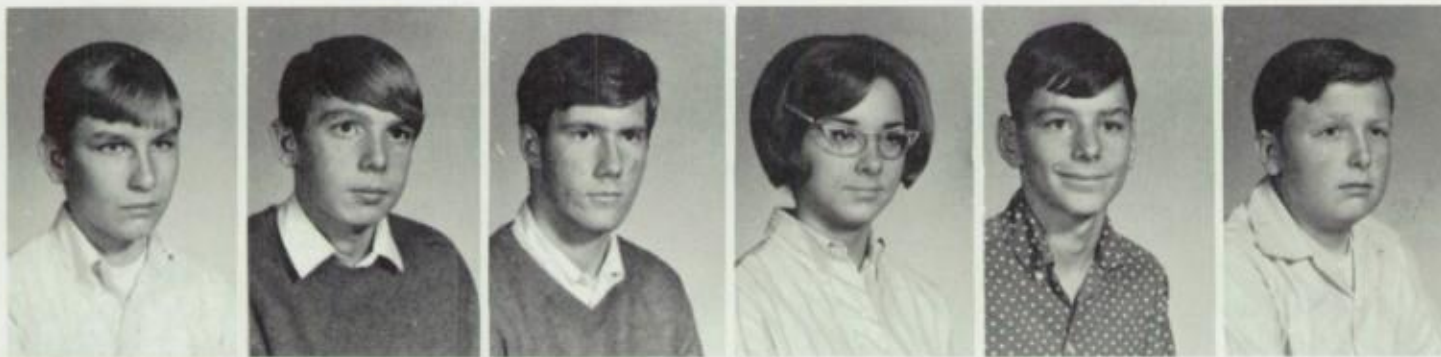

The Class of 1972

The Freshmen entered Heath High for the first time as students in the fall of 1968. During the first year, their horizons broadened through participation in extra-curricular activities and work as a class. This year's Freshman class brought new life to the various clubs and organizations in the school. Special class projects included a Sweetheart Dance and the sale of school pennants prior to tournament time. As the youngest members of the high school community, the Class of 1972 watched and learned from the upper-classmen. Coupled with their own experiences, the knowledge gained in high school will help to light their emergence on the horizon of the future and make it a brighter one.

1968-69 proved to be a year of new dawnings for the Class of 1971. This class of diligent workers made their Sophomore horizon a prosperous one.

Projects for the year included two car washes, two slave days, a candy sale, spring dance, and the showing of the film THE UNSINKABLE MOLLY BROWN.

All those participating in the class' fun filled, money making activities could have gained a sense of pride in working with a forward looking class.

It was a busy and prosperous year for the hardworking members of the Junior Class. Many new money-making projects succeeded in bringing the class a profitable fund. Class activities began with a car wash in the fall followed by a cookie sale in the hall. The entire school participated in the Junior Class Slave Auction. Two big bake sales and the public auction drew community attention. The operation of the concession stand during home basketball games and the sale of Heath High booster buttons and jackets both took a lot of work but helped make the Prom possible.

The Junior-Senior Prom was the highlight of a long year. A pagoda, Buddha, geisha house, garden, and rising sun were constructed as the edifices in the "Land of the Rising Sun". The evening was climaxed with the crowning by Dave Calhoun of radiant Karen Harter as Queen. All in all, the Prom proved to be a most enjoyable evening for all.

With enthusiasm remaining and increasing, the class of 1970 will strive as a whole to make their Senior year even more successful and rewarding.

Seniors The Class of 1969

With the joys and tribulations of high school behind them, the graduates of 1969 look to the future. The preparatory years have passed while new challenges take their place. The experiences of high school can never be relived and the memories fade as the years go by. Yet the values and knowledge attained in high school will remain forever with these graduates. Today each senior greets a new dawn.

The dawning of the 1968-69 school year transformed distant horizons into clear goals, and the Seniors ventured forth in pursuit of them. We broadened our horizons through participation in many worthwhile and profitable activities.

The 1968 Homecoming sponsored by the Senior class highlighted the autumn season. The traditional bonfire before the game and the dance, "Autumn Voyage," were termed successful by all.

Winter was a time of expectation and preparation for the many forthcoming spring activities. The Senior Sock Hop, "Signs of the Zodiac," gave those in attendance a glimpse of their personalities as determined by astrologists.

As spring burst forth, Seniors enjoyed the Junior-Senior Prom, Regression Day, and the Senior class picnic. These activities combined to make the spring season the highlight to the school year.

All too soon, however, the sun had set on the final step of a prosperous journey. Sunday, June 1, 1969, ninety-two Seniors gathered for the final time. They left behind them four rich and fulfilling years. Now a new journey with new horizons and goals must be traveled by the graduates. Experiences and knowledge gained from the past journey will certainly help them on their path.

Automotives I

Automechanics I begins the training of junior students who wish to go into this field. They learn such things as safety in shop work, how to operate various pieces of equipment, how to do basic mechanics and the application of the skills they have learned.

The senior automotive students study fuel systems, electrical systems, automatic transmissions, and special systems such as air conditioning. They also perform manipulative work related to these systems on shop units and customer cars.

Drafting I

Junior Drafting students learn lettering, free hand sketching, use of instruments, and applied geometry. A basic review of mathematics is studied in related technology. The student also studies the basic principles of projection and the many symbols as used in the language of industry. Accuracy and skill are needed to produce drawings which are commercially acceptable.

Terry Huff practices the art of surveying.

Senior Drafting consists of drawing a complete set of plans for a house. The students do some surveying and become familiar with the transit and other field equipment. In surveying they lay out land plots, calculate acreage, and establish boundary lines. On the drawing boards they design jigs and fixtures, draw maps, make electrical layouts, draw machine parts such as gears, cams, fasteners, detail drawings, and complete assemblies such as found in industry. The students also do lettering and blueprinting.

Electronics I students have three hours of shop each day to develop skills in their chosen field. These skills include soldering, wiring and electrical circuit trouble-shooting. They also have one and one-half hours of related technology each day. This is the study of electricity, electron flow, and electrical and electron components. One hour of English rounds out their school day.

The operation of a milling machine in a clean shop is a pleasure for Wayne Papageorge.

Machine Trades I

The students in Machine Trades I study basic blueprint reading, the mathematics involved in operating the machines, related technology, and the operation of the machines they use.

The Vocational Industrial Clubs of America is a national organization for youth with approximately 300,000 members. An emphasis is placed on trade and industrial education. The chapters participate in local service projects and enjoy various social events. In November and April, representatives from the Heath chapter attended the state convention. Also, the candy sale netted a handsome profit. The horizon looks bright to the VICA members because they are prepared to take a position in a world of technology.

Editor's Page

The editorship of this yearbook has not been an easy task, nor did I expect it to be. From the time the selection of the staff was made until the final layout was completed, it has been impossible to please everyone. Yet the entire annual is the responsibility of the editor, and it is that person who must make the final decisions, whether they be the color of the cover, the length of the sports' section, or the caption under a candid photo. For many students, the book may simply be 152 pages of writing and pictures. However, for me, the 152 pages are filled with memories of exciting and unfortunate times, of sleepless nights and nerve-racking photographic sessions, of hard work, and of being at the helm of a major school activity. Years from now, all these will be forgotten, but the realization of a dream will still be remembered - the book. Through working with three different staffs and as many advisors, many new horizons have been sighted and reached for me.

This year's dedicated staff and excellent advisor have attempted to present Heath High School - 1968-1969 - through pictures and literary efforts. Between the bright orange covers of this ERICA are recorded the events and accomplishments of the year, plus the people who gave life to these endeavors.

It is my sincere hope that you have enjoyed the book and that you will treasure it, as I will, always. Also, to you, the reader, these thoughts are dedicated:

"Looking back, I see
Those others . . . with their arms outstretched
Pointing to the future."
